Cindy, young school teacher of Windy Ridge, in the southern Appalachians, lights a candle every night, awaiting the return of her fiance, William, whom she had sent to the city two years ago to study singing. She rejects the love of Sam, who lives in the neighboring cabin. Her Grandpap, who seems lazy, but in reality has a finger in every pie, has secretly written William, urging him to come back, guessing that William's return will result in Cindy's awakening to her love for Sam, instead.

The church choir, directed by Cindy, has met at Grandpap's cabin for a rehearsal and a welcome to the new minister, when William, now a successful singer, returns to Windy Ridge with his entertainment troupe. True mountain hospitality is extended the visitors, and an evening of singing and other entertainment follows, with the professional troupe participating in informal "talent show" style.

They witness the disappointment of Sue Ellen, whose plans for an elopement with Frankie, member of a feuding family, are broken up by her father. Her desire to leave the mountains for a life in the city is gratified by William's decision to include her in his troupe.

Cindy, aware of the change in William, realizes that her love for him was only a shadow. Blowing out her candle, she wears a flower for Sam, and all ends happily.

"GRANDAD STEPS OUT"

The last chance the Senior Class of 1952 had to show their talent was December 8, 1951. The class chose as their play "Grandad Steps Out". The plot followed something like this: Mrs. Morton, Grandad's sister stored away all Grandad's clothes and had him thinking he would never again need them because he was too ill to go anywhere. But an old friend of Grandad's, Big Jim Mahoney (from out in "Arizony") changes Grandad's mind.

He gets Grandad to wear his nephew Kip's suit which is much too small for Grandad and they go out to an old favorite hangout of years ago and have supper. In the meantime they have paid Tilly the maid to lay on the davenport and pretend to be Grandad so his sister wouldn't know he had left.

But the old maid (Miss Abby Higgins) who lives across the street saw Grandad leave and called Mrs. Morton to tell her. When Mrs. Morton found that Grandad was really gone she demanded a private detective be brought in to find out what had happened to him.

Kip was confused to find he had made a date with 3 girls (triplets) and now had no suit to wear. He borrowed one from the triplets' brother but it was much too big. While all this commotion was going on at home, down at the "Greasy Spoon" restaurant, Grandad was feeling pretty good and tried cutting a "Pigeon Wing" on top of the table, and the chandelier fell and hit him and Jim on the head.

The proprietor gave them $500 to make things right. This helped make things right at home after everything was explained.

The play was filled with laughs and we had a wonderful time putting it on. We feel our last performance was a great success.

GOOD NIGHT, LADIES

This play was presented May 5, 1951. Under the direction of Mrs. Thomas, Mr. Kohler, and the Student Director, Ellen Stevens. For the first time we were going to perform our talent before an audience.

Here is the plot in brief:

The Raleigh youngsters, Helen, Jane, and Sam had inherited an old house near the campus of Grayson College, but it was mortgaged and they were on the point of losing it. They decided to use the house for a dormitory and use the rent for expenses and the mortgage. Their two aunts were to come and be matrons for the dormitory. But they got a telegram saying they could not come until tomorrow. The dean threatens to close the dorm without matrons but the girls get Sam and his friend "Jug" to dress up as old ladies and pretend for a while that they are the real aunts. Jack Mercer and Mickey McBride made the play quite hilarious when they came on stage dressed as old maids. The new students start coming in and Professor Dexter comes over when he hears that his old girl friend is going to stay as matron. The Professor soon finds out she is not the real Aunt but is willing to go along with the farce until the real aunt comes.

But when the skirt falls off Sam, revealing long trousers the dean threatens to expel them all but Prof. Dexter, newly-named Head of the College by the Board, takes things into his own hands.

Everything finally is happily settled and the audience relaxes after the side-splitting performance. We enjoyed very much presenting the play and we do hope it entertained you and gave you something to remember our class by.

Attractive, blonde, blue-eyed, Jo Ann Pletcher, was chosen the annual Hi-Lite Queen of 1952. She was chosen by the Senior Class as the all-round favorite of five girls.

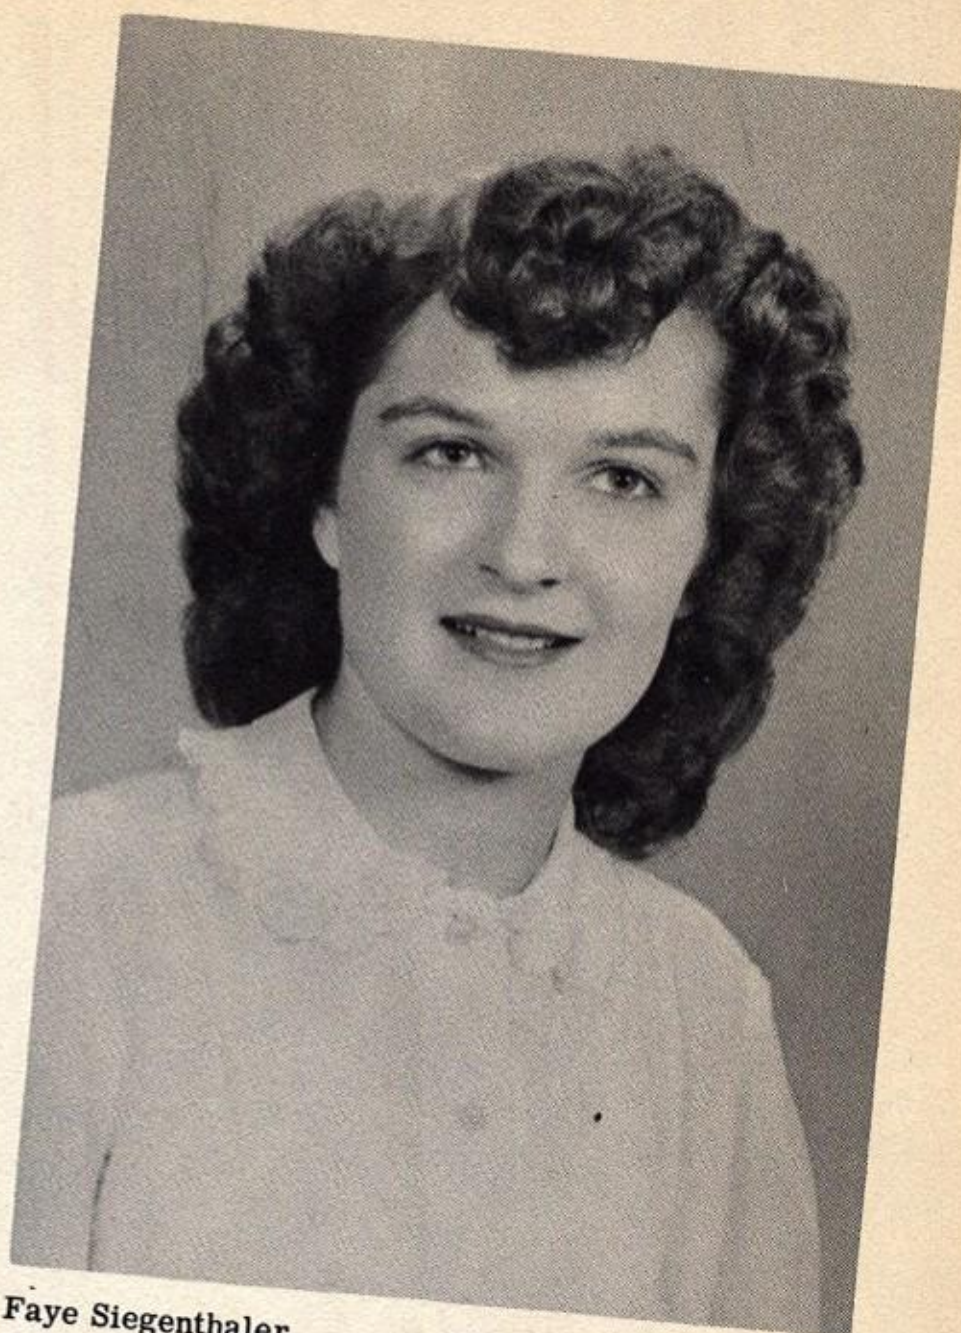

Jo Ann has a real pretty smile, which she shares with everyone, along with this she has a wonderful personality. You can always depend on her to be a real true friend, and be nice to everyone. Jo Ann has always been a lot of fun as well as a good student. We will always remember her for her teasing sense of humor.

May you always have the best of all the good things in life, Jo Ann, you are the kind of person who really deserves it.

Bob Cathey was elected crowner for the Queen.

MOST POPULAR GIRL

Phyllis Sloan, a very cute blonde, was chosen by the High School as the most popular girl of 1952.

Phyllis, better known as "Phil" is 5'3", has blue eyes, blonde hair, a nice smile, and a very pleasing personality, which is responsible in a large part for this honor.

Phyllis has been quite active all through school. Starting her Freshmen year out with a bang, she and two other girls were chosen Varsity Cheerleaders. Her Freshmen year was also made exciting when she was chosen to attend the Homecoming Queen. She holds the office of treasurer to the class of 1952. "Phil" has also been head Drum Majorette for three years.

We of the Senior class extend our heartiest congratulations to you "Phil" and may your life always be as great a success as you have made it in your high school days.

MOST POPULAR BOY

Archie McDonnell is the most popular guy of 1952 as voted by the students of Greensburg High.

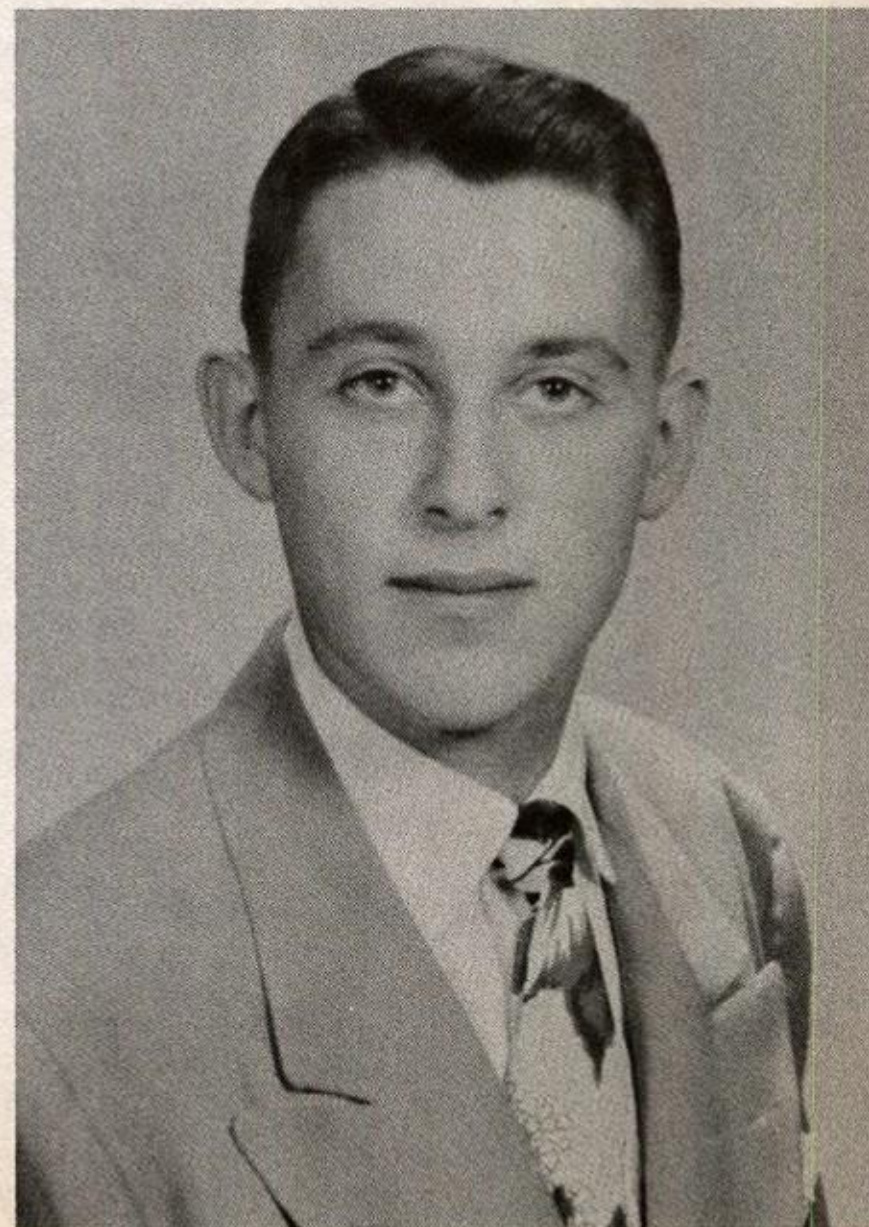

Now that the introduction is over we will be more informal and call him "Arch", as all his friends know him.

"Arch" has always been in on everything that went on, the serious things as well as the ornery pranks that the guys have pulled.

He is known for his great sense of humor, friendliness and wonderful personality. His height is 6'4", hair brown, and to add it all up just one wonderful guy.

Basketball is his favorite sport, but he also played football. He was honorary captain of the Basketball team and received a letter in both Basketball and Football. He is a member of the National Honor Society, and Treasurer of the Student Council as well as Vice President of the Senior Class.

Best of luck to you "Arch" and may you always be a success in every walk of life.

OUR COACHES

Every championship season is marked by similar characteristics--team work, co-operation by the faculty, and a good backing by the students and the community. This year at Greensburg we had all three.

The teams not only worked together but carried out the instructions of their coaches. They displayed good sportsmanship on the court and acted like gentlemen away from the gymnasium. This is truly a top achievement of any sport. The scholastic ability of the team was high. To be champions--you must be smart and play the game wisely.

Mr. Webb and the faculty co-operated wonderfully. Whether the job was taking tickets or selling refreshments, they did their job well. Co-operation is essential for any success.

The student body was usually out in good numbers. I feel that interest in Basketball improved greatly during the year. Next year we should pack the gym in every one of our seven home games.

The team will be minus six senior lettermen. They will be hard to replace. It would be difficult to single out any of the six as being the best player--each had a definite contribution to make to the team and did a yeoman job in doing so.

Interest is much higher in athletics at Greensburg. Let's keep it going by being better students, better school citizens, and good sports.

Coach Wise

I should like to take this opportunity to thank the members of our ball club, parents, and friends for their splendid support this season. I just can't help feeling that without this support, our ball club would not have had the success which it enjoyed.

This past season we have accumulated a record of 6 victories with only 3 defeats, a record which, I think, should stand as a worthy incentive for those who are to follow in the future years.

I should also like to express my gratitude for the wonderful assistance I received from Coaches Wise and Hellmann. They were most co-operative, and working with them was indeed a pleasure. Also at this time I would like to mention the wonderful training that Coach Bolin had given the boys before he left. The training that the boys had received made my job much easier.

Richard Narris

Coach Gene Wise

One thing that I most regret is the loss this year of 16 senior lettermen, five of whom won mention on All County teams. However, without the teamwork of all the boys, these five boys might not have won the honors which they received.

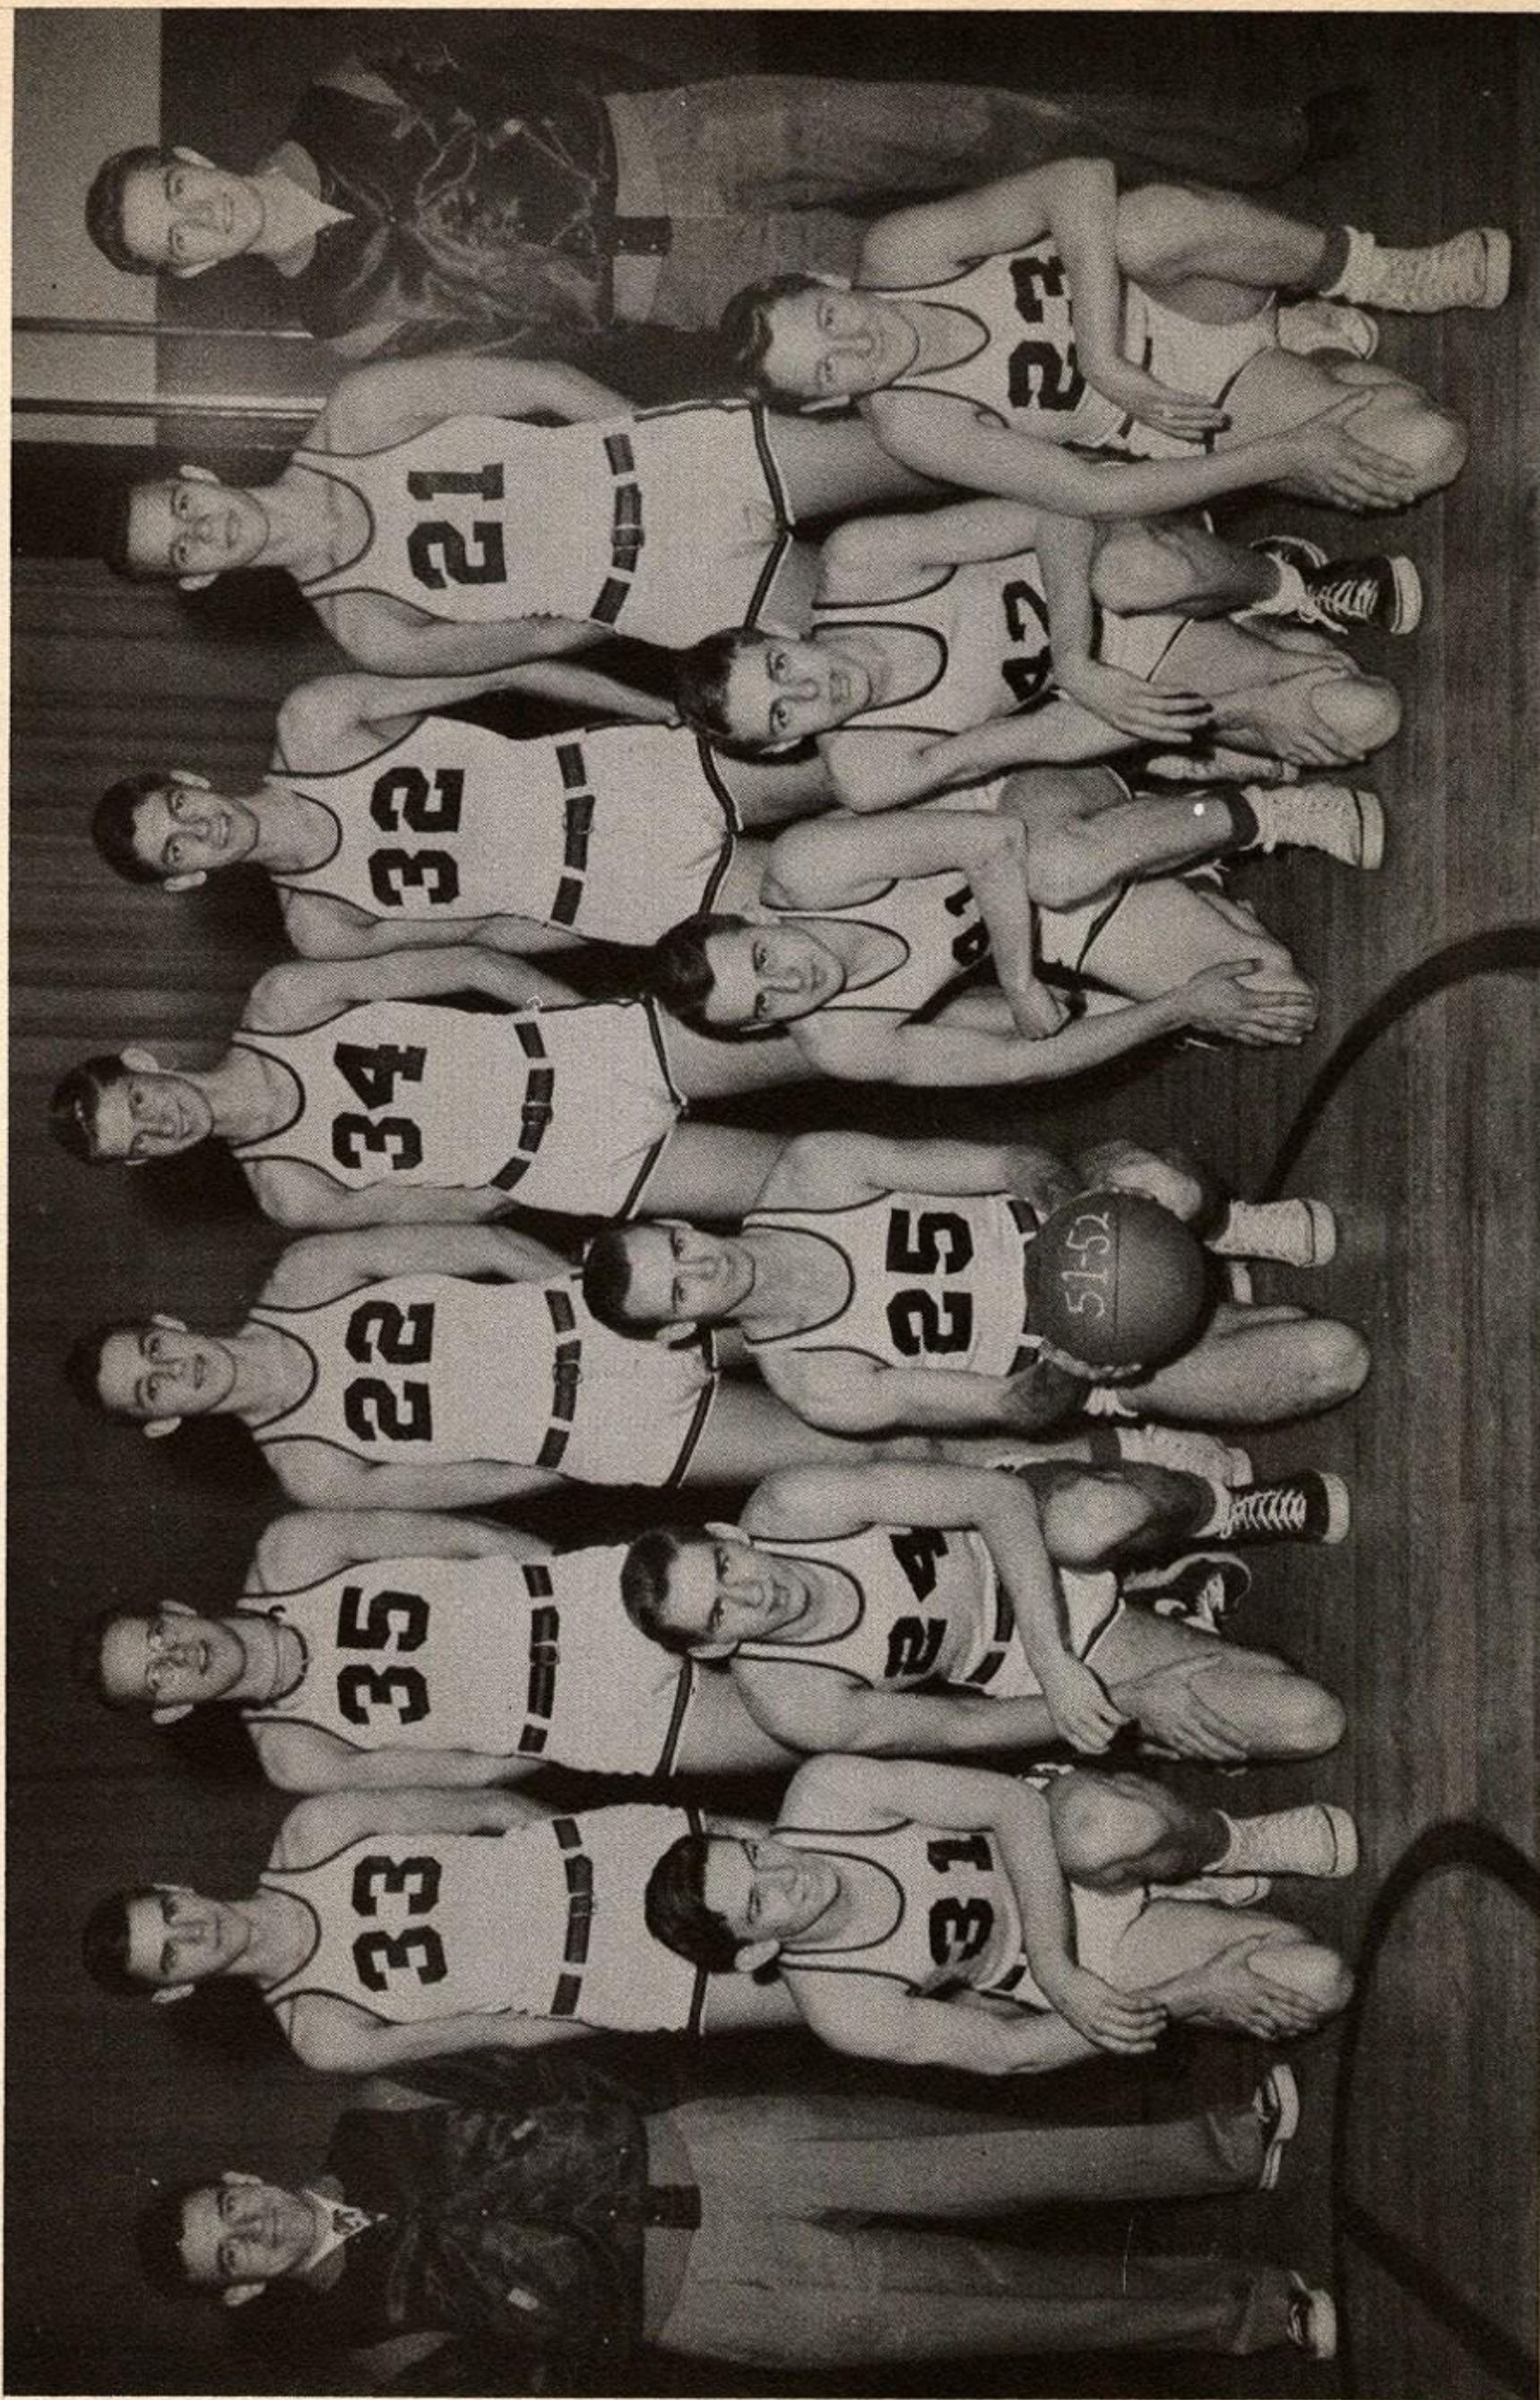

Again, let me say that it has been a pleasure to work with such wonderful boys, faculty, students, and friends. I hope that we may continue to count on such splendid support in the future years.
